ESTUDIOS CRITICOS ACERCA DE LA DOMINACION ESPANOLA EN AMERICA (14)

RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 54 pages. LC Number: KF27 . E5546 2005f OCLC Number: (OCoLC)65188995 Excerpt: . . . 11 Local Corrective Action Plans that are being implemented for unique corrective actions for each of the major sub-organizations within the laboratory. Though the effort of resumption has been truly epochal, much remains to be done in order to bring the laboratory up to appropriate levels of performance for safety, security, and environmental compliance. Our work is not finished. ROLE OF NNSA DURING RESUMPTION Even before the stand down, the NNSA had held discussions with the laboratory director and his deputy about our concerns about safety practices at the laboratory. The NNSA was consulted prior to Director Nanos decision to stand down activities. Throughout the entire period, the NNSA was actively involved in all aspects of the resumption. Initially, the NNSA enlisted additional resources from throughout the Department of Energy, notably the Office of Security and Safety Performance Assurance. The Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board also increased its presence, sending selected experts to assist their site representatives. In addition, the full DNFSB Board visited Los Alamos during the resumption to assess progress. The Los Alamos NNSA site office manager met regularly with the DNFSB site representatives to re-view their concerns. At one point, the NNSA Administrator, Linton Brooks, authorized the site office to bring in more than 40 additional staff to oversee and assist the resumption process. Federal employees were directly involved in self-assessments, readiness assessments, training, finding reviews, and decisions regarding re-suming activities. This was very much a joint activity in which the NNSA site office was making decisions and concurring in all safety and security steps along the way. Resumption of activities for medium risk and high-risk activities required my concurrence....
